

“Is Adelaide’s Transport on the Right Track?”

7pm Monday 8th September 2014

At the Burnside Council Ballroom

(Greenhill Road / Portrush Road)

Keynote speeches

Development of the North South Corridor

While many cities overseas are dismantling cross town freeways and looking at other ways of dealing with traffic congestion, Adelaide continues to place a significant emphasis on funding major road infrastructure projects to solve our traffic congestion problems.

Dr David Bray, Adjunct Associate Professor, University of Queensland’s School of Civil Engineering

Hon Mark Parnell MLC, SA Greens Parliamentary Leader

Rail freight movements around Adelaide

There has been strong criticism of the Federal Government’s study into Adelaide’s rail freight movements which concluded that a bypass rail route around Adelaide would be too expensive. With freight volumes set to rise, there are likely to be impacts on thousands of residents living close to the existing rail line.

Mark Ward, Chair of the Rail Freight Task Force

Simon Molloy, Director of Systems Knowledge Concepts

The merits or otherwise of developing an extensive tram network in Adelaide

The Transport Plan proposes the development of an extensive tram network in the city as a way of attracting increased housing density along the city’s arterial roads. This is in the absence of a cost benefit analysis of such a major infrastructure project. Will the Plan deliver the right public transport in the right places?

Professor Derek Scrafton, Professor of Transport and Planning, University of South Australia, & Ex Director-General of Transport for SA

Q and A Session

With the Keynote Speakers plus:

Andy Milazzo

Deputy CEO Dept of Planning, Transport & Infrastructure

Daniel Bennett

City Design and Transport Manager, Adelaide City Council

Corey Wingard

Opposition Minister for Transport

Kevin O’Leary

Urban planner and commentator

Mark Borlace

RAA Spokesperson

Facilitator Ian Henschke

Free public event

To submit questions for the Q and A session please contact Helen – helenp.wilmore@bigpond.com Ph: 8522 3019

Further information at:

www.communityalliancesa.org.au